Meet Susie | Owner of Visions2images

“As an art director with over 10 years of experience in an agency and corporations, I see global and local clients missing out so many opportunities to get leads because of inconsistent branding, my goal is to help them generate new clients with my strategic processes. I help businesses NOT waste time or money and provide the highest quality design and service by doing this. As a single mom to an autistic child I know how valuable time and money is.”

Podcast

Brand Clarity is a VLOG = video + blog.

It is a place where Susie Liberatore, owner of Visions2images shares her experience and talent as an agency owner about all things branding and marketing.

Susie has guest speakers on her VLOG at least once a week. These are people who are in business, talented, and successful. They share their tips with other entrepreneurs about how they got started and how they overcame hurdles in business.

How do we promote it?

Great question.

- We share this on social media of course; we share on Facebook with a live link.
- We create a blog post that is shared from Youtube and share it on LinkedIn.
- We always re-share several of our episodes each month so its ongoing organic traffic, it's included in our content calendar each month.

What is the reach?

- Susie has a wide range of people to reach and she reaches over 15,000 people on any given day globally.

Just over the past six months this VLOG has grown.
